VOLUME NINETEEN, No. 24 | UPLAND, SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1913 | $1.50 PER YEAR

UPLAND MAN ELOPES WITH HIS OWN WIFE, AND WHAT NEXT?

Sued Him for Divorce---Now Loves Him.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Do Not Know as Yet Whether Marriage Is a Faiure or Not. They Are Finding Out.

And now he is whispering sweet nothings into the ears of his wife, who recently sued him for divorce on a charge of cruelty.

And Cupid wiggled his toes in glee, for a man has eloped with his wife, and they hope to live happily ever after.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Stanton are again one, their hearts evidently being once more attuned and beating together. Just how long this will last no one knows; for the efforts of the Stantons to get married life figured out is getting on the nerves of the populace.

Several months ago H. O. Stanton, son of O. H. Stanton, who before his death, was prominent in Cucamonga, and left to his widow and son an estate valued in the neighborhood of $50,000, was united in marriage to Miss Beulah Stauffer, daughter of J. W. Stauffer and sister to Miss Pearl Stauffer.

Soon after the young people returned from their honeymoon and took up their residence in the Stanton home here, rumor had it that the happy-ever-after idea was not making good.

It was later announced that Mrs. Stanton had gone to Arizona to visit her sister and would be there indefinitely. Soon Stanton followed to Arizona with the result that within a few days both Mr. and Mrs. Stanton returned. Twice or three times this trip to Arizona and return took place and in spite of the fact that the young people endeavored to live together the final wind-up was in the divorce court with Mrs. Stanton suing her spouse for divorce on the grounds of cruelty, resulting in her suffering extreme mental pain, according to the complaint.

A hearing of the case before Judge Oster resulted in Mrs. Stanton being refused alimony, attorney's fees, witness fees, etc., she desired until the case went to trial and the trial of the case was set for the 25th day of November.

Monday Mrs. Stanton met her husband on the street and Cupid seems to have again thrown his hat into the ring, for after talking matters over they evidently decided to elope and start all over again.

Mrs. Stanton took the 3:30 train here while Stanton boarded the same train at Claremont. They evidently went to San Bernardino and there interviewed Judge Oster who gave them his blessing and they went on their way to either San Francisco or Fresno.

From San Bernardino Stanton sent the following telegram to friends here: "Beulah and I are on our way to Fresno. Will write later."

PEOPLE'S ORCHESTRA PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE.

The success of the concert series to be held this winter at Chaffey Union high school auditorium was assured when the curtains parted for the first concert last Friday night. The big room was filled almost to its capacity, and the enthusiastic crowd went home after the last number to boost for the rest of the series.

It is hard to say which of the numbers on the program was the best liked, but perhaps Beehoven's "Minuet" received the greatest applause. After this number the crowd insisted upon having an encore. The American fantasie which closed the program was well received, the audience standing throughout the rendering of the national anthem.

The next concert is by McPherson, baritone, and Collison, pianist, and will be given Nov. 7.

AN UNFORTUNATE LOSS AND A GENEROUS GIFT.

Mr. S. Miller of West Ninth street, who has done much street work with his fine, strong team of grays, had the misfortune of losing one of those horses last week, from lockjaw, caused by a nail in the foot.

This was indeed a great loss, as the family maintenance depended largely on the work of this team.

To the nearest neighbor, Mrs. F. L. Foster, came the inspiration to help in this time of need, and soon a purse of $56.50 was collected from very willing givers, among their neighbors. Another fifty dollars was sent in by several relatives.

Mrs. Foster had the pleasure of presenting this purse of $106.50 to Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who were quite overcome by the sympathy thus expressed, and gave their thanks as best they could. A. NEIGHBOR.

J. B. Howell left for Waukena, Cal., Wednesday evening.

Knight of Long Beach, who petitions for the letters of administration.

Mr. Deets died at San Antonio hospital on Tuesday and the value of his real estate holdings is $509,500, as follows: $387,500 in Long Beach, $132,000 in Los Angeles and $100,000 in the Ontario-Upland district.

To his widow Mr. Deets left the home place at Upland of ten acres of citrus fruit lands and a portion of the business property in Long Beach. The will declares that in the event of a contest by any one, the executor shall take the share of the person contesting the will and divide it among the other heirs.

At the death of Mrs. Deets the property willed to her is to be divided equally among the children of Mrs. Deets, who are Miss Edith McKean, Donald McKean, Gordon McKean and Mrs. Bessie Grisham. Before the death of Mr. Deets he deeded a house and lot to his nephew Ralph Steen of Los Angeles, the property being located in Ontario.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NEWS

The program for Friday morning assembly this week will be given by the pupils of Miss Harris' room. The program is to be in keeping with the Halolwe'en season, and promises to be very entertaining and interesting. These little programs that are given from time to time, by the pupils, mean that quite a little preparation has been given to the work and the pupils who take part are keenly interested, as well as those whose room is being represented, and while the programs in themselves may not mean much to outsiders, they mean a very great deal to the pupils and visitors who show interest by attending these assembly exercises are appreciated and very welcome.

On Pomona Day the teachers of the Grammar school planned a jolly little picnic supper for the evening at Pomona. Lunch was packed and the party left early in the evening by the Pacific Electric, for the park. After a delicious supper the party spent the evening sightseeing and enjoying the street parade and other entertainment provided by Pomona for visitors and sightseers. They returned home late that evening but were all on duty Friday morning, as though nothing unusual had happened.

It may be recalled that last year Miss Noe took a very great deal of interest and present pride in the flowers at the school, especially in the early blooming chrysanthemums, partly because she had watched and trained them so carefully and partly because they rewarded her so abundantly by being the very first large single blossoms to be found in the town. This year they seem to be just as grateful for care and attention and as a result the Grammar school shows the first large blooming chrysanthemums, growing in the open.

The Grammar school baseball team went to South Euclid diamond Tuesday afternoon to win out in a series of games played between Upland and South Euclid. The Ontario team has been winning from Upland in the past games, but the determination to win this game stayed with the boys, and after a fine game they returned with the victorious score of 9 to 5 in their favor.

MRS. C. P. HUEY IS IN THE LIMELIGHT

MRS. C. P. HUEY ACCUSED OF OBTAINING MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES. WAS FORMERLY RESIDENT OF UPLAND.

Mrs. Imogene Huey, at one time a resident of Rochester and more recently a resident of Upland, and still more recently of Los Angeles, and secretary of the Woman's Democratic League, and known throughout this section as a suffragist, was held to answer to the superior court of Los Angeles county Monday on a charge of grand larceny by trick or device. Justice Reeve who heard the preliminary declared in his judgment that the basis of another criminal complaint possibly lay in the evidence introduced before him.

However, he held Mrs. Huey to answer on the original charge—that of securing a check for $125 from Mrs. Minnie G. Pelzer by means of a trick. Bail of $1000 was furnished. The defendant did not appear disturbed by the court's finding. Her attorneys said that the defendant will never be found guilty, in their judgment.

During a part of the session a number of club women were in attendance, but their number dwindled away before the final adjudication of the court.

The Charges

Mrs. Pelzer was the first witness. In response to questions of Deputy District Attorney Graham, she told of loaning the defendant $500, which was to be secured, as she understood, by a mortgage given by D. D. Sallee a relative of Mrs. Huey's. She also told of the check she gave Mrs. Huey for $300, which was supposedly given as a bond to insure the good faith of Mrs. Pelzer as employee of the Woman's Mutual Service League, which, the state claimed, is a defunct organization.

The witness admitted receiving $121.25 as payment on the bond, but testified she was not repaid the $500 given on the mortgage for the $125 loan.

The evidence offered by the state was confined maintly to the testimony of Mrs. Pelzer, who plainly showed that she knows little about business affairs.

For the defense, David G. Hathaway, who was originally asked by Mrs. Pelzer to collect what Mrs. Huey owed her, gave testimony relating to his conversations with the defendant.

He told of getting a $200 check from Mrs. Huey, which he cashed and returned a balance to her after retaining $121.25, due on the bond. He said his understanding was that Mrs. Huey had paid Mrs. Pelzer previous amounts at the rate of $13.25 a week.

Finally, Hathaway testified, in the presence of Miss Mary Foy, Mrs. Huey tendered him a check for $625, which he tried to get Mrs. Pelzer to accept in full of all demands, but that she would not take it. It was a short time later, said he, when he was notified that Mrs. Pelzer had gone to some lawyers with her affairs.

Unintentional, She Says

Mrs. Huey said in her own behalf that she intended to repay Mrs. Pelzer and that she never thought to defraud the woman of her money. She told of the efforts made to settle the case and said that her friends offered the money during her own temporary embarrassment.

Charels A. Huey, husband of the defendant, a lawyer ,told of returning to his office one noon and seeing Mrs. Pelzer hand a slip of paper to his wife. Later, he said, he looked on his wife's desk and saw the check for $125, which was offered in evidence.

In summing up the case the court took occasion to speak of the evident keen business ability of Mrs. Huey as compared with the lack of business shown by the complaining witness. He said it an unusual case and in many respects unequaled by any he had ever listened to.

He said that the evidence also appeared to show that the defendant had been guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses. After the preliminary examination Deputy District Attorney Graham stated he will consider the advisability of issuing another complaint based on the bond transaction. The evidence was to the effect that Mrs. Pelzer gave Mrs. Huey $300 as a bond and that Mrs. Huey drew out the money for her personal expenses.

CHORAL UNION

The choral union will hold its second informal meeting at the Chaffey Union high school auditorium at 7:45 Thursday evning, Oct. 30, at which time a report will be made by the several committees selected at the first meeting.

The principal matters to be taken into consideration at this meeting will be the election of permanent officers. The selection of a director and any other matter and any other matter that may be in order.

The choral union needs the hearty support of every one who is interested in good music and the union is made up of the singers of Ontario, Cucamonga and Upland. The Chaffey Union high school has been secured for rehearsals the second and fourth Tuesday of each month, and after ten rehearsals one of the larger oratorios will be given in the auditorium some time during the spring.

Any one who can sing and read music fairly well should avail themselves of this splendid opportunity to study good music at the nominal charge of $1 for ten lessons. At the first meeting there were about 25 present, and it is hoped that on Thursday evening there will be at least 100 who will enthusiastically enter upon this work.

COLORED MAN LECTURES

Prof. Charles Alexander of Boston addressed a large audience at the Presbyterian church, Monday night, his subject being Paul Lawrence Dunbar. After putting the audience in a happy mood by tales of the colored people told in the quaint dialect, Mr. Alexander sketched the life of Dunbar. He pictured a little black boy writing verses on scraps of paper rescued from the gutter, and treasuring them that some day he "might make a book;" of the honors gained in high school thru his literary ability, and of the discouraging reception which he received from the people of his Ohio home after leaving high school.

Many in the audience were surprised to learn that when Dunbar wrote his best poems and stories he had never lived among the people of his race. The rare gift of expression in dialect seemed to spring from an inner life; he was truly a genius.

In the closing half hour of the lecture Prof. Alexander read with rare insight many of Dunbar's best poems and the people in the audience were swayed from laughter to almost tears. The evening was certainly a profitable and a pleasant one.

Miss Byrdie Eustis of Claremont as often before, delighted the audience with solos both before and after the lecture, the organ accompaniment being played by Otto Hirschler.

SUPERVISORS HOLD REGULAR SESSION

BUTLER BUILDS MORE BRIDGES, YUCAIPA WANTS HORTICULTURAL COMMISSIONER IN CHARGE OF ORCHARDS

Supervisor Butler is to build another concrete bridge in Waterman canyon, this to be at the first crossing, just below the "toll house" now occupied by Road Overseer Henry Mastin. This is the largest of the Waterman canyon bridges and when it is completed, with possibly one exception—the smallest upper crossing, every bridge will be of concrete, and "there to stay." Supervisor Butler presented plans and specifications to the board of supervisors Monday. They were approved and bids called for on the work.

Willing to Pay Half

A delegation from Yucaipa came back to insist that Yucaipa is very much interested in the appointment of a horticultural inspector to spend all his time among the apple orchards the year around, and with E. M .Boyd as spokesman they proposed that if the county will pay half of the inspector's salary the orchardists will pay the other one-half, on the basis of a salary of $1500 per year. Supervisors took the matter under favorable advisement the interpretation of which is understood to be that if the growers raise their proportion of the expense the county will authorize the appointment.

Returns from the Barstow and Needles incorporation elections were canvassed and the results declared, and the certification of the vote in Needles, where incorporation was successful, will be hurried to Sacramento by Clerk Mack.

As delegates to the national conservation congress, to be held in Washington in November, the board named W. W. Brison, George T. Barr of Ontario and George Frost of Etiwanda, the same delegates as chosen by the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

The Desert Habit

Lost the License

Frank Arona, a Mexican, and his Japanese partner, who have conducted a pool room at Cucamonga, lost their license Monday as the result of a hearing before the board, on the charge of permitting gambling and allowing minors in their place. The charge was made by Constable Rupp and his testimony and that of his two deputies, Walter Hirst and L. R. Booth, was sufficient. Arona said he knew nothing about it, and the Japanese proprietor was even less successful at a witness.

CHAFFEY SQUAD PUTS SO. PASADENA TO ROUTE IN GAME

Chaffey Men Too Fast for Crown City Lads

South Pasadena Came to Win, But Went Home With a Big Score Rolled Up Against Them. Score 59 to 7.

The opening game of the Interscholastic Football League on the local grounds resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Chafey Union squad over that representing the South Pasadena High School. The latter, though having a little the advantage in weight, were never in the hunt, the speedy orange and balck backs running their opponents ends at will, piling up a total of eight touch downs, fullback South kicking all the goals, beside making a pretty field goal in the third quarter, bringing up Chaffey's total to 59, while their opponents only succeeded in making one touch-down and kicking goal, this being made in the early part of the fourth quarter, when many second string men had been substituted.

Afair sized crowd witnessed the game and indulged in some strenuous rooting for their favorites. The Chaffey Union band made its initial appearance at this game and under he skillful leadership of Mrs. Chapin, rendered pleasing selections at opportune times, adding considerable zest to the rooting of the home tal ent.

South Pasadena elected to defend the south goal and Chaffey kicked off. On the first line up, South Pasadena fumbled, Swan falling on the ball on the ten yard line. The ball was snapped to Arnett on Chaffey's first try and Dick shot through the line for a touch dawn after about two minutes actual play and South kicked goal. The second score came quickly, Manker intercepting a forward and running for twenty yards before being downed. After a series of end runs with Manker and Arnett alternately carrying the oval the former carried it over for the second touch down, South again converting the goal. To Arnett fell the honor of the third score and to Captain Manker the fourth, the first quarter ending with Chaffey's total at 28 to their opponents 0.

The second quarter hardly opened up before Arnett charged through for the 5th score and immediately followed this up by tearing off a brilliant run of sixty yards behind superb interference for the sixth touch-down and total of 42.

Having put the game on ice, Coach Shutt made numerous substitutions in the third quarter, Dahlew and Hansen being about the only regulars left on the line and Benson put in for Dick Arnett at half.

To the latter fell the credit for Chaffey's next score, taking it over after a series of short runs. Three more points were added when South's good right foot sent the oval spinning between the uprights making the total 52-0. South Pasadena played desperately in the final quarter to avert the threatened shut-out and were aided by Dame Fortune, when Abbott, being heavily thrown after catching a South Pasadena punt, dropped the ball, Waddell, right-half back snatching up the leather, beat it over Chaffey's goal line for his team's lone tally. Shutt then sent his first string men in again and they rapidly forced their opponents back within striking distance of their line, when Swan grabbed a pretty forward pass from Arnett and surried twenty yards for the last Chaffey score, the final tally being 59 to 7.

Captain Manker and Dick Arnett played a star game for the Tigers, this speedy pair having seldom been seen to better advantage. Both fast, to a superlative degree and elusive as eels, they responded with good gains every time they were called upon to advance the ball. Hansen, he of the flaming thach, was the cynosure of all eyes and played right up to his advance notices. Hereabout we have a notion that the All-Southern center for 1914 is playing right now on the Chaffey squad. Benson demonstrated good qualities as a back-field man, and with a little more coaching from Shutt, should develop into a valuable man for the Orange and the black. He is fast and proved a hard man to tackle, although showing a tendency to not follow his interference closely enough, a fault that can be easily remedied.

Next Saturday comes the crucial test, the clash with Long Beach, a game that has an important bearing on the championship. Here's hoping for a Tiger victory.

A CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE LITERARY FEAST PREPARED

Served by The News and Used by the Public

News Reporter Wandering Here and There Gathers a Few Straws by the Way and Serves Them in Good Style.

California Place Names—News item from San Antonio Heights: "Mr. Adolphus Skagg, of Hueneme, who recently came up from Downey, has decided to go down to Upland.

Welcome to Our City—The tourists and their little cameras are with us again. But it is strenuously pressing the limit (also the button) when they take snap-shots of the first power house on the mesa and send them back east labelled, "The Mission of Old Baldy." Still, we ought to be good to the tourists and show them every courtesy and consideration; for it has been but a little while since we were all (mostly all) skidding along on the tender sole, and didn't know whether chili con carni was something to wear or one of the six best sellers.

No Doubt About It—"What makes you think he is such a good man and will surely go to heaven?"

"Well, he never gets his hair cut on Saturday nights and holds up a long line of poor mortals who haven't had their suppers; nor does he go to the movies, and in a loud voice proclaim to his suffering neighbors that he has seen the picture before in San Pedro and that the blond servant girl will finally be rescued by the little feler in the black mustache."

Just Boy, Just Dog—Rue de Euclid (our own magnificent avenue) lay basking in the hazy warmth of the autumn sun; its roadways and the grand sweep of its dark green lines melted in the south and were lost in the mists of the valley; mocking birds chattered and tumbled from bush to tree, and the air was redolent of blossoms and roses. An Upland electric car came roaring down the line, projecting its noisy bulk into the quiet scene like a sudden thunder storm in a sky of blue. It was evidently making up time, for its swaying speed was noticeable to passengers, who marked the rapidly passing poles. Suddenly there was a hard jolt, and the screech and whine of the brakes as they bit into the flying wheels—and then a bump and stop. The car backed a length or two and all came to the doors to learn the cause. It was only a dog—one of the "just dog" breed—he had miscalculated a few inches in crossing and his little life had been crushed out in a twinkling. A boy came running across the road. He was about seven years old—"just boy"—and he took in the scene at a glance. It was evidently his dog. His face trembled as he drew near and saw the mangled form of his little playmate.

"What will you take for your dog, son?" called out a heartless passenger, as the car pulled away.

The boy looked up, tears in his big eyes, and, with proud but choking voice, he said.

"When he was alive, I wouldn't a took the world for him."

Then he looked more intently at dead animal, started, and said in an entirely different tone:

"Aw Gee, that ain't my dog a-tall. He's Skinny McDorkins pup! I guess I better hike over and break the news to Skinny."

Murder in the Air—

Our neighbor surely has gone daft;
He's bought a screechy phonograph.

At first persuasion will be tried;
After that—potassium cyanide.

A Prophecy—Pondering over the marvelous growth Upland has made in every direction and along every line during the last dozen years, one naturally wonders what will be in store for us a dozen years in the future. With this thought in mind as we were rambling along Main street, Los Angeles, some days ago, our eye was attracted by a tin sign bearing the following legend:

FUTURE REVEALED
BY MADAME DE LA BUNCO
LATELY FROM PARIS
FOR ONE DOLLAR

Surely here was the place, and a cheap price, too, for hurling down the walls of time. A press of the bell brought the madame to the door. She was attired in a flowing robe of green, and carried a large, heavy countenance, with feet to match. Her Parisian accent had evidently been detained at the customs house, as she lisped in the soft syllables of Tammany Hall. On entering the darkened room we were asked to be seated, and the madame, after deftly collecting the tariff, politely asked what particular branch

THE REPUTATION of the country editor is certainly bad with the people as a whole, and every once in a while it comes home strong. At the home of The News man the other day, our regular fare of bread and water was replenished with a dish of cookies, which, through the goodness of a kind neighbor, was presented, and as ye editor was bearing those precious gems of culinary art to his own domicile, the four-year-old son of the kind neighbor bid us adieu, saying, "Bring back the plate." Surely the reputation of the country editor, with even the younsters, is indeed bad.

UPLAND BACHELORS are prone to lose as far as things matrimonial go, for 'tis said that yet another has lost out in the game of love, all because he was not familiar with the English language. Not having enough nerve to propose personally, he decided to write the young lady of his love for her. This young lady is said to be rather short on avoirdupois, or as is unpopularly known as thin. Said bachelor decided that in proposing he would start out with the words "bonnie lassie," but when he wrote it his foot slipped and this is how he commenced his letter: "My Bony Lassie." Needless to say, said bachelor will now remain single as far as this young lady is concerned.

THE MOUNTAIN FIRE to the north of Etiwanda this week indicates that the work of Upland men when fire broke out in San Antonio canyon recently, was timely and produced the desired result. As soon as the alarm reached the city, not only a dozen men, as requested, were hurried to the scene, but three dozen, and by midnight there were one hundred and fifty men fighting the demon that threatened our water shed. When the Etiwanda fire first started too few men were sent to control it and the result was very bad indeed, although it is stated that fire fighters had a much more difficult job to handle. Steps should be taken the minute a fire breaks out to get at least a hundred men on the ground immediately and thus do away with a risk that might result in irreparable loss to the water shed.

FEW PEOPLE realize the value of a library and do not sometimes appreciate the fact that within a very short distance of them are libraries which rank high in the literary world. Right in our midst w chave three excellent libraries and The News desires to urge the people of Upland to take advantage of them. The Upland library is still young, but its value is being greatly increased from month to month, and before five years have passed we will have a library that goes far ahead of our present expectations. At the Chaffey Union high school is a most excellent library and it has back of it a fund which purchases some $2000 worth of books each and every year. The use of libraries is free to the people of the colony and every man and woman should make it a point to take advantage of this opportunity.

AND what a crude chap is father, for history states that the other evening he broke into society through the efforts of the members of his immediate family, and on arriving at the swell affair noticed that the gowns worn by the ladies present were decidedly decolette compared with those of the days when he roved in swelldom. While watching the evening's pleasure he chanced to sit down beside one of those swell dressed ladies and although father thought the lady would catch cold for lack of clothes, she imparted to him that the hostess had neglected to ask her to take off her coat. Father was somewhat shocked at the lady's appearance, as she then appeared, but he gallantly proceeded to the hostess and imparted the fact that said hostess had neglected to ask one of her guests to remove her cloak. The hostess immediately apologized to the guest, and when the cloak had been removed the guest returned to where father sat and remarked that she felt much more comfortable, as with her cloak on she had been decidedly warm. In spite of the fact that father was somewhat shocked at the woman's appearance, he felt called upon to say something agreeable, and said: "Yes, indeed, how we missed YOU before you took off your coat." Whether father bade her adieu with "We hope to see more of you" or not, history fails to report.

PEOPLE now on earth are so used to wonderful things that nothing surprises them; it takes something more than usually phenomenal even to interest them for any length of time, so commonplace has the marvelous become, says the Pomona Review. If it were possible to resurrect a man who has been dead these hundred years, he would be dazed and stunned by the things that happen every day, and would be glad to fall dead again, and quit racking his brains to understand it all. He probably would refuse to believe that it is the same world he knew a century ago. It would be useless to tell him that men had wrought wonders that astonished him; he would fall back upon astrology and necromancy for a solution, or insist that this is a new world wherein the gods have their workshops.

The trifling matter of determining and locating an earthquake by means of instruments would seem to him sufficient evidence that the gods are running things personally. There is a great shock in some remote corner of the world; perhaps mountains split in halves, or desolate plains opened up and swallowed a tribe or two of barbarians; nobody in Europe or America felt a tremor of the earth to justify such a conclusion, but it is scientifically certain that such a shock occurred. Men have invented seismographs, which may resemble coffee grinders or wheelbarrows, for all The Review knows about them, but so wonderfully are they made that they register the thrills of the earth thousands of miles away; and so accurate are they that nobody can dispute their records.

This would surprise the resurrected man; but what would he think if you told him in dead earnest, some such yarn as this: "A big steamship with hundreds of souls abroad, had her sides stove in by another vessel, in a fog. The other vessel staggered away, and she was left alone, with the ocean pouring into her. Her sinking was inevitable, in time. But a man sat on a stool in a little cabin on the ship, and jerked some levers, and fiddled with some keys, and monkeyed with some doodads, and sent a message over the waters, through the fog, that was received and interpreted by vessels scores of miles away; which vessels hastened to the scene of the disaster, and rescued those passengers."

SCISSOGRAPHS

MAN'S PRIDE IN HIS FACE

The old human race is in love with its face;
Man worships the cut of his mug.
In the cave people's day the first workers in clay
Etched a monkey-faced man on his jug,
On clay and on stones and on elephant bones
Their portraits they drew—and they baked them on pones.

The poor Eskimo, buried deep in the snow,
Puts his totem pole up in the breeze,
It's his horrible phiz done in wood, so it is,
A frieze that would cause you to freeze.
Those faces up there they would frighten a bear,
And the pole that must tote 'em's a totem for fair.

The Assyrian "kinks," those proud purple old ginks,
Flat-nosed and ugly as gall,
Their portraits they'd mix in the clay of the bricks
And they'd bake 'em and make 'em a wall.
It's a poor trait of character—wouldn't you say—
To want your old portrait forced on us that way?

Old Quen Cleopatra, she still gazes at you
Sketched out on an obelisk pile,
The folks who were ace high, they all nailed a face high
On stone in the land of the Nile.
Today we have faces in color and tone
Produced on our billboards with lithograph stone.

Every old talcum can bears the face of a man,
King George puts his face on the stamps,
The czar he puts his on the coin, so his phiz
Will be dear to dukes, peasants, and tramps.
Ever go to a show with the freaks in a row?
Did the fat lady sell your photo, or no?

Yes, we all love our phiz, freaky fierce as it is,
We are proud of our features and shapes,
And we swell up and "bust"—we poor creatures of dust—
When our photograph gets "in the papes."
For the power of the press is a thunderbolt hurled
That can carry our mugs through the width of the world!

—Kansas City Star.

THE HEAVENLY ROAD

There was no milky way of stars,
But just a field of green
With daisies by the pasture bars
All radiant and serene!

There were no angels in the air,
Nor raptured seraphs wise,
But up the noontide's sunlit stair
Trooped gorgeous butterflies!

There was no river of pure gold,
But dancing in the breeze
A laughing brook forever rolled
Beneath the arching trees!

There were no shining jasper walls,
Nor azure baldricked dome,
But just a house with friendly halls,
And quiet peace of home!

—Edward Wilbur Mason, in the Craftsman.

Said a careless young lady named Anna,
When she stepped on a banana,
"Now, what do you see
That you stare so at me?"
And the bystanders cried, "Hosanna!"

POLITENESS AND TRUTH PART OF SCHOOL COURSE.

Here are some of the lessons in deportment to be taught to Los Angeles public school children:

Don't crowd others off the street.
Don't laugh and talk boisterously.
Don't chew gum or eat peanuts on cars or other public places.
Don't carry on conversation while the orchestra is playing.
Don't visit on the telephone.
Don't talk of personal matters over the telephone.
Don't attract attention by overdress or inappropriate dress.
Don't crowd ahead of women or older people on entering cars or buildings.
Don't stand around the school halls waiting for girls, if a boy; or if girls, for boys.

An extended course in morals, manners and deportment is to be taught school children of Los Angeles, according to an outline issued recently in the new course of studies arranged for the high and intermediate schools. This is something new in public instruction.

The teaching will be in the form of informal discussions in class rooms on the value of each of the subjects presented to the class.

Manners, the value of the best manners, will be treated at regular periods. The children will be taught in this course:

Manners on street cars. Deportment at public gatherings, including assembly halls. Politeness in halls, class rooms. Kindness and consideration in the use of the telephone. Morals: Honesty, truthfulness, sincerity, wrong of lying, cheating, stealing. Sympathy. Simplicity in dress. Simplicity in speech. Simplicity in action. Loyalty to one's family, friends, school, city, country. Industry: Value of work. Obedience. The acceptance of rightful guidance.

These will be the chief items of instruction to the boys and girls in the schools of Los Angeles.

"Truthfullness has moral beauty, is the sign of a brave character, and is absolutely necessary to the stable relations in society. The conduct of all business would be impossible if dishonesty were predominant," says the outline of the course.

"Sincerity is a necessary accomplishment of all friendship. All lying is a species of cowardice. The boy or girl is too much of a coward to face the facts and meet the consequences of his or her conduct. A second falsehood is almost a necessary sequel to the first. On the other hand, a frank confession of wrongdoing is a long step toward restitution.

"Simplicity in dress is an idication of gentle breeding, which depends on real worth and not on externals for recognition and approval. It is an indication of good judgment which understands the true value of things. Life is too precious to spend in overmuch care for dress.

"'Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow.' They have time to grow.

"Slang is used by the braggart and the profane. Refined, forceful speech is a great asset in business, as well as in social life, and is acquired only by effort.

"In actions be simple and not ostentatious, haughty, and trifling. The over-straining for effect in conversation and conduct reacts on character, making it more and more artificial and insincere.

"At public assemblies do not whisper or rattle programs or applaud at the wrong time. Do not prepare to leave an assemblage before the program is quite ended.

"It is not good manners for boys to wait about the halls for girls or for girls to wait for boys.

"Don't talk loud, laugh boisterously or whistle, run, push or crowd in school halls. Be courteous to strangers.

"Be considerate of mates by listening to recitation, and refraining from laughing at mistakes. Put yourself in the other's place."

BOOK READERS AND LIBRARY CULLINGS

MISS ANNIE B. WARREN, LIBRARIAN OF UPLAND LIBRARY WRITES TO THE NEWS ON LIBRARY'S FUTURE

By Annie B. Warren, Librarian

The small collection of books in the Upland public library forms the nucleus of what it is hoped will become a well-selected and well-stocked library in the future. And while we are not soliciting gifts of books, or donations, the spontaneous generosity of some of its patrons and citizens of the town leads us to feel that there may be others who possess the library spirit, which is always the spirit of helpfulness and earnest desire for mutual uplift. And feeling this, prompts me to say to any who may have a wish to contribute books or magazines, that the library has ample accommodations for such gifts, and many readers who will appreciate them. There may be presons who have books which they would be glad to see installed in a good library where they can be circulated and read again and again rather than that they should molder in dust. The life of many books, though they may be good for the time being, is so short that if not read while new they will pass into oblivion, never to be read, and yet this light literature may afford moments of real pleasure and refreshment to some who are shut in doors day after day, or week after week. A lady said to me on returning some books of this nature, "I found these books as delightful as a visit from a friend, and felt so refreshed after reading them."

The library is without a Bible, and some one may have one that he would be glad to place in the library, for reference; if so, it would be graciously accepted.

A love of reading may be innate or it may be acquired. If one does not possess an innate love of reading, says Oliver Wendell Holmes, he should provide himself with a "literary tea pot"—a friend of literary taste who would be generous enough to read an cull the best and most delightful in literature and recount it to him, so that he may keep in touch with the thoughts of great minds. It has been said that "a half hour's conversation across the dinner table with a wise man is equal to years of book study." But the wise man gets his wisdom, though it may be indirectly, from the ancients.

Many are happy in the possession of their own homes, and own private libraries, but there are many more in the town who have had to renounce these delightful possessions, and have come into your midst from their far away homes in the East, and they show by the daily increase in library memberships—amounting now to over 400—that they do appreciate the books within their reach.

There is always a full compensation to those who cultivate a reading habit. In times of sorrow, what a [illegible]

A loc[illegible]teering wheel is said to have been responsible for the turning turtle of a Winton touring car owned by Dan J. Kearney, said to be the owner of a saloon in Los Angeles, and said to be occupied by himself and party, on Tenth street near the Jordan place. The accident occurred shortly after leaving the city limits and those who saw the big car pass judged its speed at from forty to fifty miles an hour. None of the party was seriously hurt and all returned to Los Angeles in a machine from a local garage. The car was not seriously damaged.

NEW YORK GIRL CLIMBS ALPS

One of the most daring mountain climbs that have ever been accomplished by a woman in the Alps was made recently by a New York girl, Miss Welsh, who ascended the rock wall of the Titlis, accompanied by two Engelberg guides.

The Titlis is one of the most difficult and perilous mountains to climb, as the strata of the rock run in overhanging layers and afford only sufficient hold for the tops of the fingers and toes in the crumbling surface. For this reason boots could not be used and Miss Welsh wore rope-soled shoes, while her guides were in their stocking feet.

The party started at 6 o'clock in the morning and at 8 they reached the Hofadalp, where the actual rock begins. From there they began to ascend the north wall and after 8 hours of the most perilous rock climbing they reached the summit, 8000 feet above the valley. The climbers then crossed the glacier and went down to the Trubsee in two hours.

The ascent was witnessed by a number of spectators in Engelberg, who followed the party through telescopes and field glasses as they were alternately silhouetted against the skyline or clinging to the almost perpendicular surface of the rock.

Miss Welsh is an expert mountain climber and ascended the Matterhorn last week, accompanied by the same guides.—New York Sun.

THE LONG-TAILED ROOSTERS OF JAPAN.

The breeding of roosters with long tail feathers has long been the pastime of the natives of Shnewara, on the island of Shikoku, Japan. By patient selection of a breed of fowls, continued through 100 years, the tail feathers of the ordinary barnyard cock have been lenghtened until some of the roosters on the island now have tail feathers measuring eighteen feet.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

W. R. GARRETT TO LOCATE IN UPLAND

A PROMINENT ATTORNEY FROM DUNSMUIR DECIDES TO LIVE IN UPLAND.SNOW OF THE NORTH PERSUADES HIM

W. R. Garrett, attorney at law, together with his family, have decided to make Upland their home and are this week getting located here. For the present Mr. Garrett and family will reside in the Palmer house on East Ninth street, while Attorney Garrett's law offices will be located in Suite 117, of the Ruedy building.

Mr. Garrett comes to Upland practically a stranger to the people as a whole, but he is not a stranger to the city, as several times he has been here during the winter month, when he visited his sister, Mrs. G. A. McCrea, who is the wife of Geo. McCrea, prominent banker of Ontario.

Attorney Garrett comes from Dunsmuir, in the northern part of the state and before living there was located in North Dakota where he was a neighbor to both Messrs. Johnson and Brown of the well-known grocery firm here.

Since residing at Dunsmuir he has been one of the workers in behalf of that city and comes to Upland to join us in making Upland a larger and better city in every respect.

Mr. Garrett has been in active practice of law for the past eighteen years and while at Dunsmuir was city attorney there as well as district attorney of Siskiyou county for a period of four years. Not only was he city attorney, but held the position of president of the Dunsmuir chamber of commerce, was appointed a commissioner from Siskiyou county to the Panama-Pacific exposition, and was a Republican state committeeman.

Mr. Garrett made Upland a visti last winter, in February, just after the frost visited us, and although he thought conditions were bad here, he found on his return home that four feet of snow did not appeal to him, and he made up his mind at that time to make Upland his future home, principally because of the school facilities for his children, and secondarily because he saw a future which he believes looks very bright for the city.

Of Mr. Garrett's leaving Dunsmuir the Dunsmuir News has the following to say and judging from it Upland has a most valuable citizen to add to her many live and wide-wake business and professional men:

"While it has been known for some time that Attorney Garrett had under consideration inducements of a business nature, which if accepted would necessitate his leaving our town, yet his many friends and in fact the citizens generally, had hoped that he would decide to continue his residence here. However, his resignation as town trustee and legal adviser of the town which was handed in and accepted at the regular meeting of the board Wednesday night, and his explanation that he would leave Dunsmuir about Nov. 1, and that his business affairs demanded his entire time until then, set all hopes a-glimmering and it may be taken for granted that we are to lose our faithful public servant and experienced public attorney.

"It is no disparagement of the intrinsic merits of other town officials to say that Mr. Garrett has done a vast amount of substantial good for Dunsmuir in the four and one-half years he has been here. In every department of the public life of the community he has played a prominent part—as city attorney, as town trustee, as chairman of the street committee, he has given us the extensive improvements in the past year and a half that have changed the whole appearance of the town—as president of the Commercial club that has spread the fame of "Shasta Wonderland" far and wide—in literary and social circles—all have felt the benefit of his great ability, his earnest co-operation and his energy and push.

"His place in the public life will be hard to fill, and if we mistake not his good work will continue to be appreciated by our people for years to come.

"We are informed that Mr. Garrett will continue the practice of his profession in one of the cities on the Bay about Nov. 1, and we have no doubt of his success in his new field of labor."

ARGENTINE ANT A BAD INSECT

A genuine note of alarm has been sounded by the bureau of entomology on the Argentine ant. One of the smallest of insects, this ant invades localities in such countless millions and shows such diabolical intelligence as well as savage persistence in prosecuting its terrific depredations, that it may well be questioned whether it shall not eventually be named the "conqueror." Certainly if the testimony of the scientists who have patiently and exhaustively studied its habits for years is to be accepted, man will need to match his highest intelligence against this ant's actually superhuman instinct. Fortunately, the Argentine ant is at the present time confined to a few Southern states and California, and very fortunately its annual rate of progress in spreading over the country is slow; once established, however, it is there forever. Entomologists believe that colonies cannot survive zero weather, so that the invasion of this minute ant will not reach much north of Mason and Dixon's line. But all of the country south of this line is destined to be overrun by this greatest of pests.

The errors of the ways of the Argentine ant are many and manifold. They invade the poultry yard and kill newly hatched chicks, and they kill and drive off beneficial bugs and foster harmful ones. In orange groves and orchards, nurseries, sugar cane and corn fields, and among market garden crops these ants attend and protect against all comers countless millions of scale insects, plant lice and other destructive bugs, the sweet excretions of which furnish the choicest delicacies with which the ants regale themselves and their young. In order to guard these insects from storms and enemies, the ants build protective coverings and shields over them, and attend and groom them constantly.

As a house pest the Argentine ant is certainly the limit. Nothing is to be compared with it as an ineradicable and dangerous nuisance. It eats whatever man eats, ranging from meat to sugar, and it can spread tuberculosis and other diseases. It penetrates ice boxes, tightly wrapped paper parcels, bread boxes and even glass jars if the housewife neglects to put on the rubber band before screwing down the top. In houses infested with it there is no sleep unless the legs of the bed are wound with tape saturated with corrosive sublimate. If the corner of the sheet touches the floor the ants climb up and swarm over the sleeper. Let the baby's pillow touch the wall, and in a few minutes the infant, screaming from the bites of the pest, must be snatched from its bed, disrobed and plunged into water to make sure that all the vicious little insects are removed. Dishes of arsenical poison must be placed thruout the house to kill and repel the ants, and poison tape must be wound around the legs of the dining room and kitchen tables. At treatment by such deadly poisons as cyanide of potassium and hydrocyanic acid gas this ant apparently laughs, and let there be a moment of relaxation of the few repellant measures possible and the ants swarm to the attack, and the feast, whatever it may be.

Yet, with all this, the Argentine ant is totally blind. He does all his work in the dark, but he does unremittingly, night and day. He is, moreover, a true predatory Socialist. Every ant is a scout and when he finds his way to the sugar, or the butter, or the meat, or lard, or bread, or cornmeal, or anything edible, raw or cooked, he immediately hits the back trail and in a few minutes thousands of ants are on the job. Communities have declared war on and killed millions, but it has been the case of the old woman sweeping back the sea with her little broom. There are no known natural enemies of the Argentine ant worth considering, and chemistry is practically helpless. He is as wise as the once-poisoned coyote, who has learned his lesson, and simply moves away temporarily from the immediate locality. Scientists hold out no hope of this ant's obliteration or for the possibility of preventing his spread. The ant came from Argentine by way of New Orleans, and is gradually being disseminated throughout the South, both by means of his own migrations and by the railroads and floods. Orchards and fields have been already ruined and abandoned because of his depredations, and while man as yet has seldom been actually driven from his habitation by this pest, yet living with this ant means continual warfare. The only known redeeming trait of the Argentine ant is that when it invades the house the bedbugs disappear. But the remedy is far worse than the original evil. Bedbugs at least do not swarm through the butter dish. The things that the bureau of entomology says must be done on the farm and in the house to keep the Argentine ant under control to make living possible are enough to induce a person to migrate to the North Pole to escape this pest. —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THANK YOU

The library board acknowledges with thanks the donations of some thirty books and numerous magazines from Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bordwell of Upland.

It is a great regret to the board that the lack of funds has made it impossible to purchase new books for the library. The building cost about $500 more than the sum given by Carnegie, and this, together with the purchase of furniture and supplies and the salaries which must be met, have quite depleted the sum which was originally intended for books. There is a prospect, however, that a few additional volumes can be purchased soon.

Many have taken advantage of our October $1.00 rate. Why not you?

BROWNSON HANGS JURY IN HIS TRIAL

ORANGE GROWER SAYS HE IS IN WRONG WITH MOTORCOP OF ONTARIO—HENCE HIS ARREST SECOND TIME

R. R. Brownson, prominent Socialist and orange grower, seems to be in either wrong or right with the people of Ontario, and at this stage it is rather hard to say just where he stands.

It seems that several weeks ago Brownson was arrested for speeding and he put up bail of $5 and failed to appear, the judge considering the $5 as his fine for the first offense.

In the hearing before Judge Pollock something was said which led to a reporter on the Ontario Report to state that owing to Brownson's "heavenly spirit," or something of that sort, he didn't want to plead guilty. Some one seems to have been off on the wrong foot for nothing regarding any one's heavenly spirit was said and Brownson, on his return from his summer vacation, heard of the item and wrote an article to the Daily Report in which Motorcop Brogon, as well as the Report reporter, were slightly "called."

The day following the appearance of the article Officer Brogon again arrested Brownson for speeding and he plead not guilty on the charge that Officer Brogon had it in for him and instead of endeavoring to enforce the ordinance was simply striving to make existence unbearable for Brownson.

The trial was held last Thursday afternoon, with Judge Crane of Upland presiding, and resulted in a hung jury and the outcome of that trial was most peculiar when all conditions are viewed. The city ordinance of Ontario reads 15 miles to Tenth street and Brownson and his attorney both admitted that the Brownson machine was going between 22 and 24 miles an hour, yet the jury could not agree on a verdict, owing to the fact that Motorcop Brogon stated that he never arrested a man unless he was driving over 25 miles an hour. Brownson says he was driving his Ford under 25, while Brogon claims that his speed was above thirty.

Mayor Freemire and Officer Brogon of Ontario seem to be a law unto themselves, judging from the decision of the jury, for in spite of the fact that Brownson admitted he was driving over twenty miles the jury failed to agree, in spite of the ordinance which states that the limit is 15 miles.

Evidently the jury, some of them at least, were of the opinion that Brogon did have it in for Brownson, and would not agree to a verdict of guilty, as charged.

The second trial of the case is set for tomorrow, and friends of Brownson are looking forward to the outcome of the case with a great deal of interest.

As Brownson came out of the police court last Thursday Officer Axley served another warrant on Brownson, charging him with having his muffler open, contrary to the ordinance of the city of Ontario, to which Brownson entered a plea of not guilty, and this will come up following the trial of tomorrow.

Brownson states that he has been driving his car for the past nine months, with the muffler open, closing it only when in Los Angeles, where he knew the city ordinances required them closed. Brownson's visits to Ontario have been numerous since he owned the car and this is the first time officers have found fault with his muffler open.

Attorney Beardsley of Los Angeles, a personal friend of Brownson, is acting for him in the case, although Brownson, who at one time was in newspaper work, takes very good care of himself.

AUTO CLUB CAUTIONS AGAINST VIOLATION OF TUNNEL SPEED RULE.

Eight miles an hour in the tunnels.

This is the warning issued to motorists by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Speaking of the new ordinance, Secretary S. C. Geary said:

"We have had various complaints at the club of excessively fast driving through the tunnels. When the pavement has been freshly sprinkled this has not only been dangerous to other vehicles, but has been unpleasant to pedestrians in that it has thrown the mud on the footpaths.

"The club is drafting signs to be erected at the mouth of each tunnel so that visiting motorists will be acquainted with this law compelling a speed not greater than eight miles.

"We have found that his is a reasonable speed and agree in every respect with the council in adopting it. Speeding in the tunnels is one of the greatest of menaces to the safety of vehicles, and we believe it should be eliminated."

NEW GEM FOR KAISER

Emperor William is seen these days wearing a large ring and apparently very proud of its conspicuousness. It is a helidor stone set in a massive band of gold, a gift of the empress. Helidor is a new fashionable stone. It is golden yellow in color and turns green at night under artificial light. It was discovered in German South Africa.

Because of the shifting attributes of the new stone the superstitious among the emperor's subjects already have begun to predict dire things. Their apprehension is nothing new. There are people who would not accept as a gift the most valuable opal in the world. Families have been cursed—so the stories go—because they obstinately refused to reject these stones in the making up of the ornaments forming the family jewels.

Pearls in some rare instances are declared to have possessed the changing attributes of the opal. On rainy days they show gloom and in moonlight they take on a light-blooded streakish color.—L. A. Times.

CYCLE OF DEATH TAKES TWO--THIRD?

A NIECE OF JACKSON DEETS IS KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT ON LONG BEACH BOULEVARD SUNDAY

Several weeks ago, back in Waterville, O., a little woman received news from Upland of the death of her brother, Jackson Deets.

Sixty years of life had not dealt lightly with the sister of the dead man, and the news proved a blow that would not permit her to take the long journey West.

Her brother's death aroused in her a wild fear for the safety of her daughter, Miss Cora Frazier, a teacher in the Fifty-second and Main-street school, Los Angeles, who came to that city two years ago.

To relatives who were coming West she begged that on their return they would bring with them the girl. So, at the funeral of Jackson Deets, these relatives implored the young woman to return home with them. She delayed her answer.

Monday the relatives prepared to take the girl back home. And Wednesday she started—but in a casket.

For Miss Frazier was mangled to death under a somersault automobile on the Long Beach boulevard, between Long Beach and Compton, on Sunday night.

And now the relatives here, of the little mother back in Ohio fear that the cycle of death which hovered over the family and swooped down upon it for two victims within a few weeks will not be swept away until a third victim is drawn.

And that, they fear, will be the mother of the girl, the sister of the girl's uncle. That she will survive the shock they do not believe. She is aged and she is weak and sorrow is a poignant thing.

Nor is tragedy merciful even there. Miss Cora Frazier was taken just when even death of her uncle could not entirely becloud her happiness. For, it was anticipated, she was shortly to have become a bride.

And it was in the car of her reputed fiance, John T. Adams, a West Virginia oil man and capitalist, residing in Los Angeles at No. 752 Hartford avenue, that death swooped out of the night and claimed its second victim of the cycle.

John Adams was injured, but the physical lacerations are as nothing to the mental torment he is undergoing. Nor is even death itself as tragic as what he is to face.

For John Adams is to return with the girl's remains, to the little mother back in Ohio, all that is left of the girl that meant so much to her and, perhaps, to him.

Adams was in bed unable to see interviewers, prostrated by shock; and his reported engagement to Miss Cora Frazier could not be verified or contradicted.

For Adams, man enough to take all that is left of the girl back to her mother, in the hope that he may be able to lessen the shock and

A PLAIN STATEMENT!

Californians, native and adopted, are particularly proud of their state because of its multiplied merits. Possibly without safe contradiction, it may be said that John Steven McGroarty has done more to reveal to Californians the wonderful history and romance of the years which have passed than any other one man.

In his great pageant drama, "The Mission Play," the wonderful early history of California is depicted. In his history of California, entitled "California: Its History and Romance," he tells the whole beautiful and enticing story in one volume of ten chapters. This book contains 120,000 words, thoroughly indexed. In the West Coast Magazine, of which he is editor, California is continually written of with regard to her various phases.

New plays are in the making by Mr. McGroarty, all of which deal with California and her wonderful past and present. All this work is based on his single-volume history of California.

There has been a great demand for a cheaper edition of McGroarty's history by students (to whom it is of especial value), club women and business men. The retail price is $3.50 per volume. For many reasons, which we are unable to give here, we cannot publish a cheaper edition, thus reducing the price. But the demand has been and is insistent, therefore:

This newspaper, with others, realizing the great educational value of McGroarty's work to California in general and their subscribers in particular, have made it possible for you to secure McGroarty's guaranteed $3.50 edition of "California: Its History and Romance," for just one-half price, namely: $1.75. There is not a single home in California not already supplied that ought not to add this book to its home treasures. From grammar-chool students up, it is of inestimable value.

THIS OFFER IS LIMITED, AND WILL BE PROMPTLY WITHDRAWN WHEN ITS TERM HAS EXPIRED. The holiday season is soon upon us. The tens of thousands of tourists will be among us. We cannot afford to make this great concession to them. NOW is your time to buy—AT ONCE. You are not limited as to the number of copies you take. If you want to lay several away for the holiday season do so, but do so now while the opportunity is yours.

One individual, last season, bought over thirty copies at the regular price—$3.50—to send to Eastern friends, saying: "It is the finest present I ever saw for my Eastern friends, whom I am trying to bring to California. In my own home, I could not do without it. It's my California dictionary."

Clip this statement, take or mail it to your paper together with $1.75 and get your copy. This order cannot be filled outside of the office of the paper from which it is clipped, as the paper is making a sacrifice to make this possible for you.

Guaranteed regular gold-stamped and tipped $3.50 edition, for a very short period, at $1.75. Place your order at once without fail to insure yourself advantage of this "special offer."

PRESS COMMENTS:

"Mr. McGroarty is thoroughly competent for the task he has undertaken."—Detroit Free Press.

"The book is written with the glow of enthusiasm of a local patriot, not in a critical spirit."—New York Sun.

"His work in composing so vivid a short history will be immensely beneficial to California."—Pasadena Star.

"There is a wealth of information in Mr. McGroarty's fine volume on the history and romance of California."—Pittsburg Telegraph.

"An appendix contains information on a variety of subjects that even alone would make a valuable addition to any library."—Sacramento Bee.

"He writes with a charm like that of the country itself. The book is essentially historical, but it is history by an artist."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

"The book carries an atmosphere of enthusiasm which should be very grateful to the latter-day successors of our West-coast pioneers."—New York World.

"California: Its History and Romance, includes everything the ordinary reader would desire to know of California, as interesting as it is."—Portland, Ore., Journal.

"Mr. McGroarty puts fire and color into his work and does not confuse the minds of his readers with an array of statistics which some historians seem to consider so essential."—San Francisco Bulletin.

"The author of this present history has spent years of research into California's history. But his book is not written in the manner of the student. Mr. McGroarty has brought his training and ability as a practical journalist to bear upon his research work—with the result that the book's readability is one of its greatest charms."—Los Angeles Times.

"The principal value of the volume, therefore, will lie in the fact that it supplies the great need for such a volume, written not in the dry style of the customary historian, but in lively terms, more like the best newspaper composition, of which the author is master."—Pittsburg Post.

"No State in the Union can match California for romance and the activities of commerce. And these two elements the author sets forth with a pen dipped in the Golden Rivers. When authoritative history is presented in such guise, it makes fiction seem a pale product indeed."—New York Press.

D. A. R. Reception—

The Hallowe'en motive furnished the keynote for the decorations at the reciprocity luncheon of San Antonio Chapter, D. A. R., held Monday in the Current Events club rooms, Ontario. The yellow glow of candles within weird jack-o'-lanterns cast a mellow light upon the beautiful gowns of the women, the great clusters of yellow chrysanthemums and the profusion of symbolic emblems. Yellow and black place cards, revealed the Hallowe'en witch and her broom. The almond baskets, daintly evidenced the same colors, and the same theme. Overhanging all was a large flag, expressing the patriotic purpose of the organization.

After a social hour the luncheon of four courses was served and the afternoon was then devoted to the following program:

Prayer.

Song, America, Mrs. Will Rankin, accompanist.

Regent's remarks, Mrs. S. C. Handerson.

Address by state regent, Mrs. Isaac N. Chapman of Alameda.

Solo, Miss Ruth Thomas.

Solo, C. A. Pierce.

Address by state vice-regent, Mrs. M. F. Thayer of Pasadena.

Remarks by Mrs. Caldwell, regent of Pomona chapter.

Reception of four new members, Mrs. A. P. Harwood, Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. Olson, and Mrs. Thomas.

Greetings and farewells.

The following ladies participated in the delightful reception and contributed to the happiness of the occasion: Mrs. I. N. Chapman of Alameda; Mrs. M. F. Thayer of Pasadena; Mrs. Goodale, past regent of Sibbil Dwight Kent Chapter at Suffield, Conn., Mrs. Caldwell, regent of Pomona chapter, and her daughter, Mrs. Kirkpatrick; Mrs. Midgley, secretary, and Mrs. Belcher, treasurer of Pomona Chapter; Mesdames Howe, Wilson, Sutherland and Fox, and Misses Fox and Smith of Pomona; Mesdames A. P. Harwood, C. E. Harwood, Mrs. Thayer and Mrs. Granger, and Miss Aurelia S. Harwood of Upland; Mesdames W. F. Alford, M. A. Collins, A. K. Chadwick, Hart, S. C. Henderson, Johnson, Edwin B. Key' David Minis, Henry Olson, Harry Petch, William Terrell and M. A. Thomas of Ontario. Visiting guests from Ontario were Mesdames Ross, Kendrick, Peabody and Harding. Misses Leah Christensen, Gladys Gardner, and Verna Jacques served.

In her forceful address Mrs. Chapman emphasized the great privilege of being descended from the founders of our country. She particularly emphasized the responsibilities associated with such descent and urged work for the uplifting of our country as the creed and motto of the D. A. R., her hope being that every chapter would specialize in philanthropic work for women and in patriotic efforts that will inculcate love of country in the rising generation.

Shaffer-Florer—

The Long Beach Press of Oct. 23 has the following to say regarding the marriage of J. Will Sahffer, well known here:

A Kansas school day romance of twenty-seven years ago culminated in Long Beach last Saturday night, when J. Will Shaffer of this city, and Belle C. Florer of Wilson, Kas., were united in marriage by Rev. J. M. Baxter of Los Angeles, an old-time friend of the family.

Mr. Shaffer is a member of the Elks, Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges, and his bride is an enthusiastic worker in the Rebekah and Eastern Star in her home town. The bride journeyed from Wilson, Kas., last week.

Only members of the immediate family witnessed the ceremony, which took place at the new home of the couple, 1214 Atlantic avenue. The bride was gowned in gray charmeuse with trimmings of represse lace. She carried an arm bouquet of Cecil Bruner and bride's roses. The ceremony room was prettily decorated with pink and white bloom and greenery. The salanos vine with a profusion of pink enchantress carnations and white chrysanthemums were employed in the attractive arrangement.

After the ceremony refreshments were served at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Alexander Waldie, 1103 Lime avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gundy attended the wedding from here.

Wiene Roast—

Gilbert and Ernest Cline, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cline, gave a wiene roast to about twenty boys on Monday evening, from four until seven. A very happy time was enjoyed.

Surprise "Stag"—

Mr. George Cable received the surprise of his life last Tuesday evening when about twenty of his men friends walked in upon him at the invitation of his wife, the occasion being in honor of his steenth birthday. After turning George over the Morris chair each man did his duty. Cards with a smoker thrown in were enjoyed until a late hour. Refreshments appropriate to the occasion were served. The men who helped to celebrate the birthday hope he will live to have another. First prize was won by F. H. Manker, the booby by Charles Deverts.

Those present were Messrs. P. H. McQuillen, A. Betts, Charles Deverts, Cliff Lamb, F. H. Manker, Ernest Mehl, J. W. Mehl, Tom Smith, Harry Tonner, M. L. Thompson, Reid Bordwell, R. R. Wiseley, Perry Long, M. Whitmoyer, J. H. Flinn, Fred Froehde, Dr. Swain.

Across the street at the J. W. Mehl home, Mrs. George Cable was entertaining the wives of the men and several other ladies at the same time with a five hundred party. Mrs. Willis Mehl won first prize, a hand-painted plate, and Miss Amanda Gerry the booby. Lobster salad with bread and butter sandwiches and French pastry and coffee were served to the following guests: Mrs. Reid Bordwell, Mrs. Willis Mehl, Mrs. Perry Long, Mrs. M. L. Thompson, Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mrs. R. R. Wiseley, Mrs. Harry Tonner, Mrs. Clifford Lamb, Mrs. J. H. Flinn, Mrs. Ernest Mehl, Miss Amanda Gerry, Miss Eva Gerry, Miss Maude Gerry.

Frownfelter-Goodban—

Miss Vera Goodban, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Goodban, was married Wednesday to Jonas Frownfelter, the service being performed by Rev. S. S. Sampson. Only relatives and immediate friends witnessed the ceremony, which took place at two o'clock at the family residence.

A sinmple home wedding had been arranged, the decorations being beautiful white and yellow chrysanthemums. The bride was prettily gowned in all white, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Mr. Frownfelter's home is in Los Angeles and he is an engineer for the Pacific Electric railway company. He is now stationed at Riverside. Miss Goodban is well known here and has a host of friends. Following the marriage, light refreshments were served, after which the bride and groom departed for a trip to San Diego.

Birthday Surprise—

A birthday surprise party was successfully planned and carried out by Mr. F. B. Chaffee for his wife, which occurred at their home on East Ninth street, last Saturday, Oct 25.

The parties participating in this pleasant affair met at Mr. Chaffee's office and went from there in a body to his home. Mrs. Chaffee was completely overcome with joy and surprise. C., to be held at San Diego, Nov. 18, 19, 20, with Mrs. Julia Lyon alternate. The president, Mrs. Manker, will also attend. Hallowe'en Party—

It is predicted that the Hallowe'en masquerade party to be given by the Misses Nellie Fetrow and Nellie Bowers, at the latter's home, Friday, Oct. 30, will be a striking success. The idea offers a variety of grotesque and ghostly ways of masquing which will prove very confusing and thereby cause much amusement. A large number are invited and all will ascertain whom their life partner will be, maybe.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will be held Tuesday, Nov. 4, at 2:30 o'clock, in the church parlors. CHAFFEY HIGH NOTES

An impressive assembly was held Monday morning at the high school. Members of the different classes voiced in a few words the sympathy of the students for Mr. and Mrs. Hill in their sorrow at the death of the mother. Resolutions were passed that expressed in definite way the feeling of student body and faculty. It was an especial privilege to thus express sympathy, since Mr. Hill has always been such a sympathetic friend to every student. The classes were dismissed at the close of the fourth period that the faculty and representatives from the student body might attend the service at Bellevue cemetery.

Under the direction of Miss Avery the work in debating is well under way. This work is far less spectacular than athletic contests, but is of the greatest interest and value. Chaffey won an enviable name among the schools for her prowess in debate, and a considerable group of the students are working hard to keep up this good name. Plans have been made for a round-robin debate in which each of four schools has two teams on the floor on the same evening. This will make an opportunity for several students to make the school debating teams.

The Chaffey Union high school orchestra and the musical history class entertained the People's orchestra after the concert of last Friday, in the dining room of the school cafeteria. The tables were set in a hollow square, and a bank of greenery filled one side of the square. The flowers used were roses, and the other decorations were in the orange and black of the school banner. About thirty were in the group at the table. Tiny photographs of the auditorium-library building, mounted on black cards, with a knot of orange ribbon, were given the guests. The name of the recipient was lettered in white on the card. The souvenirs were prepared by the musical history class. After the delightful lunch the visitors piled in the immense Pacific Tours Co. sight-seeing auto, and hurried away, after grateful cheers for Chaffey.

THE SECOND OF THE NEW "MARY" STORIES.

"A proposal from the Spanish Don," the second of the "Who Will Marry Mary?" series, is perhaps the most sensational of all the "Mary" pictures which have been released thus far. For the purpose of making the principal scenes in this film, a branch railroad was hired—and the result obtained amply justifies the expense involved.

The first novel sensation is gained when we ride in the baggage car with Captain Bradford and the Spaniard, watching the scenery flash by through the open door. Then, as the Spaniard uncouples the last car, we stand in the doorway of what is now the last car and watch Captain Bradford's struggle with the rusty hand-brake as the detached car gradually loses momentum at the top of the grade and begins to roll back down the long hill. Then begins a mad chase over switches and under bridges as the derelict car gains greater and greater speed until it is finally plunging along at breakneck speed toward an open drawbridge.

The tense moments in the race are made even more exciting as we flash from one view of the car showing Bradford at the brake to the other end of the car upon which stand Mary and her terrified friends. Then, as the car plunges toward the drawbridge, we are on the other side of the stream where we see it coming towards us on the trestle, rolling on to the very edge where the platform on which Mary is standing seems to be suspended over the water. It is a breathless moment and the suspense has been admirably worked out. In addition to the thrilling episodes, there is a good bit of comedy introduced in the agonies of Mary's fat suitor who proposes to her on board the yacht.

FIRE IS OUT

Fire Chief Manker brings word to this office this morning that the mountain fire which raged in the mountains to the north of Etiwanda a greater part of the week, commencing last Sunday afternoon, is out and men are returning to the valley, leaving only a patrol in charge. Hunters started the fire while hunting on the mesa just north of Etiwanda, it quickly spread to the mountains.

Very few men were sent to the scene when the fire first started, with the result that the fire got beyond their control. More men were sent for, and with a fire-fighting force of between 350 and 500 men the fire was subdued. For a time it was feared that the fire would spread to San Antonio canyon, but all danger is now past.

MIXED THE MUSIC

Two or three years ago, says Charles Harrell, bandmaster of the Irish Guards, in the October Strand, we were engaged to play on the occasion of some athletic sports at a public school near London, the grounds of which overlooked a high road close to a cemetery.

It was a glorious day, a hot Saturday afternoon. The sun shone, and every one was in the highest spirits, but there was one thorn in what was otherwise a bed of roses.

That afternoon seemed to have been selected for an extraordinary number of funerals!

To suit the occasion we naturally played a light class of music, the program including, for instance, a selection of the popular airs of the day, and I had the greatest difficulty in timing our performance so as not to clash with the mournful processions that kept passing. Again and again just as we were about to launch ou into the "Merry Widow," or something as embarrassingly appropriate, I would spy another hearse turning the corner, and would have to hurriedly change the tune or wait until the mourners were safely out of earshot.

It was a little disconcerting and distinctly trying, but I managed things all right, I thought, and congratulated myself upon having come through a difficult situation with flying colors.

But, alas, my self-satisfaction was short-lived! Three days later I received a letter from an indignant widow complaining that, of all tunes, the band had played "Put Me Among the Girls" while her dear husband's funeral was passing the grounds!

"Hoo is it, Jeems, that ye mak' sic an enairmous profit aff yer potatoes? Yer price is lower than ony ither in the toon and ye mak' extra reductions for yer freends." "Weel, ye see, I knock aff twa shillin's a ton because a customer is a freend o' mine, an' then I jist tak twa hundretweight aff the ton because I'm a freend o' his."—Punch.

$1 THE NEWS has recently been enlarged to a seven column paper, and it will be the endeavor of the management to make this publication larger and better, and of more value in every respect.

We make a specialty of providing readers with the home news first and foremost.

With The News selling at $1.00 per year throughout the month of October, there is absolutely no reason why you should borrow your neighbor's paper. The one-dollar rate makes the paper cost you less than two cents per issue, and the neighbor from whom you have been borrowing the paper would rather pay the dollar than be bothered with you.

This opportunity lasts but thirty days, and it's a chance to save fifty cents on every dollar invested.

Don't overlook this chance.

CYCLE OF DEATH

perhaps stay Death's third card, is not the sort of man who talks much.

All his friends knew was that he had been Miss Cora Frazier's constant companion and confident for the past year and that her death had literally made a wreck of him. He will survive, however; all men do. But whether the mother back in Ohio will, rests with the fates.

The story of the fateful wreck on the Long Beach boulevard is told in a word. Adams was blinded by the searchlight of another machine and his car was driven over a ten-foot embankment. It somersaulted twice, the first roll throwing him clear of danger. Death had not marked him. But the girl was within the cycle.

Miss Frazier made her home in Los Angeles at the Netherlands hotel. She was a friend of the city superinterdent of school and came here to prepare the way for her mother. She leaves that mother the savings of several years, invested in Long Beach property.

The girl's relatives are Mr. and Mrs. James Kifford of No. 334 West Forty-seventh street, Los Angeles, the widow of Jackson Deets in Upland, and Edna Jackson and Reckord Deets, who came to attend one funeral, not a second.

John Adams has been in Los Angeles six years. He took Miss Frazier to Long Beach Sunday afternoon, hoping the music and salt air would relieve the depressive feeling that had been hers since the death of her uncle.

Cucamonga

L. M. Ledig was a Los Angeles visitor Wednesday.

The Misses Amy Swanson and Dora Lind of Pasadena were guests of the G. P. Ledig family last week.

Paul Rupp and Chris Rupp of Mound Ridge, Kas., and Homer Galle of Reedley, Cal., were guests of John and Will Rupp this week.

The young people of the town had a very enjoyable dance at Cucamonga hall Saturday evening. There was a goodly number present and all expressed themselves as having a delightful time.

J. W. Woodman has returned from a visit to his sons in Kansas. He says that the boys, who formerly lived here, are farming in the Sunflower state, and are well pleased with their prospects and do not expect to return to California.

Frank Matlock, who was accused of robbing his roommate at the Coulson ranch and was confined in the county jail awaiting trial, was brought back here Tuesday evening and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty, and was sentenced to five month's imprisonment in the county jail.

A reception was given to Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Miller by the congregation of the M. E. church Saturday evning. The attendance was very good and a delightful program, consiting of addresses, readings and musical numbers, was given in the auditorium of the church. At the conclusion of the program an adjournment to the basement was made and refreshments were provided by the ladies and an hour or two was spent in social intercourse.

Special meetings will be held at the Nazarene church next week, commencing Nov. 2 and continuing all week. A number of good speakers will be present and it is planned to make the meetings very interesting and profitable.

J. A. Hall has a Banana apple tree on his ranch that is a prolific producer of excellent fruit. The soil and climate of this section seem admirably adapted to this variety of apple and those who have tasted the fruit declare that they are the finest ever and compare favorably with the best of Eastern apples.

The popular Aloha card club held the first meeting of the season at the Albert home last Friday evening. Nearly all the members were present and a very enjoyable evning was spent playing five hundred, H. O. Ward and Mrs. Frank Thorpe having highest scores for the evening's play. At the business session Mrs. C. F. Thorpe was re-elected president, Mrs. W. C. Belden vice-president, and Miss Eleanor Albert secretary.

Cucamonga is becoming quite citified with the advent of new railroads and last week there was a hold up and several robberies committed. The robbers obtained $20 from the person of one party and succeeded in thieving goodly sums from some of the workers on the railway. The cook at the Dillon camp saw a party leaving with some of his belongings and hastily secured a gun and fired at the fleeing visitor but it is presumed without effect, as no dead robber was found in that vicinity.

The Santa Fe railway has definitely concluded to come as far west as Archibald avenue with their spur track in the Alta Loma section and grading operations are under way. The line chosen runs just north of Highland avenue and will be three-quarters of a mile north of the Pacific Electric at its terminus. For the foothill orchards and the greater part of the acreage of the Alta Loma colony the location is a very advantageous one and a packing house will undoubtedly be built on the line before another season's shipment of fruit.

ALSO SIGNLESS

T. R. Woodbridge, councilman, of this city, who was called to the East recently on account of the serious illness of his mother, sends us the following clipping showing that not only does Upland believe in a signless landscape as far as garbage cans are concerned, but New York as well believes in the same thing.

Under the direction of the National Highway Protective society, an aggressive campaign has been in progress for more than a year against all kinds of advertising signs unlawfully displayed upon trees, guideposts, buildings, etc., along the state highways.

"We have notified nine hundred advertisers," said Colonel Cornell, "that we shall prosecute any of them who disobey the law. The signs nailed upon trees are particularly objectionable, because they do not only disfigure, but ultimately destroy the trees.

"Our campaign in this city and on Long Island has been productive of good results and we are practically through with that territory. We are now spreading the good work in other parts of the state, taking such places as Lake George, Albany, Troy, Utica, Syracuse and Buffalo, and we expect to meet with equal success in those cities with the co-operation of the public."—N. Y. Tribune, Oct. 7, 1913.

Councilman Woodbridge states, "Am here indefinitely, depending on how soon my mother can be taken home. So far she is doing well. For a wonder our weather has been simply gorgeous and at its best, but the clouds are gathering."

CORNED BEEF AND---

of the purple future we would like to have the veil torn from. We replied that we wished to know about Upland in 1925.

"Upland, oh yis. De shade of Peg-Leg Smith, the great prospector, would probably put youse wise to anything in dat direction. I'll call it up for youse."

There was a slight rustling from a cabinet nearby, and then a thick voice inquired our mission. There was no doubt about the voice being in touch with things spiritual, for the aroma accompanying it was about 20 per cent above proof. We repeated our inquiry and then listened to the oracle:

"Yes, yes—Upland! Why, when I used to prospect through the San Berdoo valley a few years ago, Upland wasn't dreamed of. But I see it all right now as it will look in 1925. It has more future to the square inch than any city in all this vast Empire of the Southwest. An earthquake in 1916 sunk Old Baldy and left in its place a beautiful mountain lake, ten miles long and two miles deep. The upheaval threw the county line three miles to the west, giving Upland control of this marvelous natural reservoir, and the city is making millions from it every month. Why, Owens river hain't a shower to it. A new county, composed of Upland, Ontario and Cucamonga, Alta Loma, Pomona and Chino, and called Sanstane, was formed in 1917, and naturally, Upland was made the county seat. The desert has been beaten back beyond the range, and the entire valley is a golden garden—rich beyond the dreams of Alpha or Omega. Her population is only surpassed by that of Los Angeles, but the following census (1930) will show Upland to be the metropolis of the yer state. Two large observatories and an airship station are located on Red Hill, and—"

"Just a minute, please, Mr. Smith. Did they ever find the money buried in Red Hill?" we asked.

There seemed to be some confusion in the cabinet, and something that sounded like: "What the hell do you want for a dollar?" issued from that corner.

The lights snapped on again and the madame announced the interview over, saying it was very hard work for a shade to monkey with the distant future, especially a shade with only one leg.

OWING to a lack of floor space in our garage we will not repair automobiles after November first until further notice. The rainy season will soon be here, at least it is expected, and as we would be unable to house machines left in our care, we have decided on this plan. At a later date we may take up automobile repairing in a much larger garage, at which time we will be ready to serve you. We will still continue to sell

Gasoline, Oil, Sundries, Supplies

Our Motorcycle and Bicycle retail and repair business will continue as before, and if you want a Motorcycle of quality the THOR is what you want. Our repair department is in charge of competent men, and we will endeavor to give you the best of service.
